Physicians Succumb to the Yellow Fever at Jacksonville.

The People Disheartened by the Spread of the Disease.

Memphis Threatened by a Death at Decatur, Alabama.

Professor Proctor Numbered Among the Recent Victims.

Yellow Fever Spreading.

DECATUR, Ala., September 13.—Another case of yellow fever developed today. There is great excitement, and all trains leaving are crowded with citizens fleeing from the town.

WASHINGTON, September 13.—Miss Clara Barton received this message from Colonel Spurlock, who left New Orleans Tuesday with thirteen nurses: "The following telegram dated Baldwin, Fla. 'Left two more [illegible] McCleary, have wired New Orleans for doctors. People dying at McCleary for needful attention. The country around is panic stricken. The situation very sad, much needed.'"

NEW YORK, September 13.—Health authorities anticipate no damage from yellow fever here, even though occasional deaths of refugees from the fever district occur, as that of Professor Proctor, who died Tuesday, has been removed from the hospital to an isolated dead house on North Brother Island.

MEMPHIS, TENN., September 14.—Memphis has ordered non-intercourse with Decatur, Ala., which is 150 miles east of this city. A death, supposed to be from yellow fever, occurred there.

NEW ORLEANS, September 13.—A special from Jacksonville says: "The wealth of 18 dump and empty. Rumors of dire sickness in Jacksonville and many new cases have a depressing effect. Everything wears a most desolate look to-day. To-morrow eighty nurses will arrive from New Orleans, Charleston, Savannah and Atlanta."

JACKSONVILLE, September 13.—New cases to-day 44, deaths 4.

PASCAGOULA, September 13.—James Patterson, who arrived from Jacksonville on Wednesday was taken sick to-day. Physicians think he undoubtedly has yellow fever.

The Vatican and the Knights.

NEW YORK, September 13.—A Rome cablegram to the Catholic News announces that a decree of the holy office on the knights of Labor question favorable to that organization has been forwarded to Cardinal Gibbons.

NEW YORK, September 14.—It will be remembered that in April, '87 his holiness, concurring in the ideas set forth in a letter of Cardinal Gibbons in favor of the knights decided there was no cause for action. The pope also decided that in Canada, where a condemnation had been issued against the knights, members of the order could receive absolution on promise of obedience to future decisions of the holy see. The matter having been pigeon holed before the holy office this decree is the result. It settles for good the question as far as Rome is concerned, provided of course the constitution and aims of the order remain the same.

Battle of Lightweights.

MINNEAPOLIS, September 14.—The Myers-Needham twenty round fight for the light weight championship of the northwest and $1000 was witnessed by 2000 [illegible] for the privilege. The fight opened with cautious sparring, which predominated throughout. There were no knock downs or clean blows. The best fighting was done in the eleventh round, when Needham became groggy and Myers let him at will. The referee awarded Myers the fight on points at the close of the twentieth round, neither man showing severe punishment.

NEW YORK, September 14.—In Cobb & Proctor's Grand opera house and adjoining property were burned this morning. Loss $250,000.

A Train Wrecker Arrested.

IOWA CITY, IOWA, September 13.—[illegible] employe of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad at this city and the C. R. I. & P. railway at Cedar Rapids, was arrested on the charge of having tried to wreck a passenger train on the above named railroad near this city a year ago. The man's name is Wm. Orcutt. He is 20 years old and was raised in this city, but has been traveling around a great deal. He has made a confession, saying his motive in trying to wreck the train was robbery of the passengers. He has been bound over to await the action of the grand jury.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, September 13.—Weather indications for Friday: For Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, fair weather, [illegible] temperature, light to fresh variable winds, becoming southerly.

Forest Fires Raging.

BAY CITY, MICH., September 13.—Forest fires are raging in various parts along the shore of the Lake Huron peninsula, beyond Grant. The woods are very dry, and the flames are sweeping everything before them. Many people have been driven from their homes and their property laid waste. The people in the vicinity of Pine Lake, Iosco county, are reported to have probably perished.

National Greenbackers.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 13.—In pursuance of the recommendation of the recent convention of the national greenback party in session in Chicago, a call has been issued for a national convention of the party, to be held in this city on the first Wednesday in September '89.

Visiting Odd Fellows.

SANTA FE, September 13.—A thousand delegates to the session of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows at Los Angeles visited Santa Fe to-day and were entertained by the people here. The chief feature was an allegorical display of trust from the crossroads of Santa Fe and vicinity. The excursionists will disband at Los Angeles and return by various routes. Every state east of the Rocky Mountains and Canada were represented.

BASE BALL.

The Games Beaten by Leadville's Picked Nine.

The patrons of base ball in Colorado Springs were treated on Monday to a game between the Springs club and the Leadville Blues which thoroughly disgusted and they had reason to be. The Springs boys certainly played the "rehearsal" game of the season for them, and the playing of the visitors was very poor outside of their battery and that was not even up to average for them and Colorado Springs people know pretty well how they play for they have not had much chance to see any one else this summer.

The Colorado Springs boys were beaten to start with and they are not to be blamed much for being discouraged, for about every time they play a club, be it a [illegible] or a professional team, they have to face the best battery in the state in Bates and Wilson. The boys can beat any picked nine in the state, but they can't beat a nine selected from the best clubs of the state every time they play. Bates and Wilson are getting to be the best battery kind of a combination in this city.

Any kind of a description of the game would be about as tiresome as the game itself. It was lost by the boys "fumbling" the ball and by spiritless and careless playing generally. Lynch began it by a bad error in the first inning but he partly redeemed himself by some good work afterwards. The McMahon brothers were the battery and "Red" did his work fairly well, but the "Kid" was decidedly "off" and came near spoiling what has so far been a really brilliant record for so young a player.

Our boys batting was also decidedly weak. Fitzgerald alone did the most commendable. The heavy battings of the club could not bat Bates at all, in fact it was doubtful if they could have hit a balloon had one sailed by.

The visitors outside of their battery were no better than the home team. In fact their game is decidedly amateurish, and of all the tallies they made but two or three were earned runs.

The following is the score:

TODAY'S GAME.

To-day's game promises to be a much more interesting one than that of yesterday and the Springs club will likely win, as they will not have to face Bates and Wilson. They can play a much better game than that one was and it does not take a much better one than that to beat the club they will have to play. Peterson will be in the box, which will be considerable satisfaction to the many admirers of his pitching. The following are the players and their positions:

ACTS OF KINDNESS.

Some of the Work of the El Paso Humane Society as Shown at the Meeting on Monday Last.

A Young and Prosperous Organization—Is Accomplishing Much Good in the County.

The El Paso branch of the Colorado Humane society held a meeting on Monday at the law office of Judge Colburn at the corner of Pike's Peak and Nevada avenues.

The society is doing a good and noble work in this county and its effect will be a blessing on the next generation. The work which allowed the spirit of many dumb creatures. Some idea of the work being done by the society from reading an account of a few of the complaints made the society which are selected at random from the records.

On August the 1st a black horse which was very lame in the hind leg and that was being driven on the Colorado City street car line was ordered out of that use.

August the 11th a complaint was entered that possibly 3500 chickens in coops so crowded that it was impossible for them to get feed and water, and that the coops were kept in cellars in this condition until the chickens were disposed of. The agent warned the particular merchant referred to, and at a subsequent visit he found that the chickens had been cared and properly fed and watered.

On August the 23d complaint was made that a young man had ridden his horse to such an extent that it sank exhausted on the ground. The agent examined the horse and found that it was true. A tag of warning was placed on the animal and its owner written to.

August the 27th complaint was entered that a woman who was lying sick with typhoid fever had a drunken and worthless husband who abused her, and that he had let his young child lie out of doors all night and that it had died the next day from the exposure. Investigation proved that there was some truth in the complaint but it was thought a civil case for the sheriff and was referred to that officer.

These are but a few of the cases that the society's agents have had to attend to. The agent in this city is Sheriff Lew Jackson and in Colorado City it is Mr. Millard Stone.

Some ninety persons have already placed their names on the roll of the society and have paid their dues, and others are constantly being added. Following is a list of the society's members.

At Manitou Clough and Moore's newspaper contesting camp in the southern portion of the city a shooting affray occurred [illegible] fortunately did not result in any very great harm Trouble has been brewing between two of the employes, Al Henderson and James Morrissey for some time At noon yesterday they met and after some words Morrissey who is a young Irishman drew a heavy revolver and fired at Henderson The bullet missed him but entered a tent in which were a number of the workmen and hit the timekeeper James Rooney in the fleshy part of the leg, the wound slightly injured. Henderson who is known by the name of "Boston" then drew his gun and he and others took after Morrissey several shots were exchanged, in fact a perfect fusilade was kept up for several times, and the only wounds received or [illegible] injured Morrissey was taken before Justice Shafer for examination but [illegible] further action. The republican strength of the state will be rolled forth by the democratic state ticket this fall. It means simply a fuller vote and a larger majority.

The Republican seems to have seen the true inwardness of the Patterson nomination. It was made to strengthen the democratic legislative ticket. But the effort is in vain. The next senator from Colorado will be a republican.

We publish this morning a list of the members of the El Paso branch of the Colorado Humane society. It is a strong list, but it does not include all who should show their sympathy with this society. We also publish a few of the cases which the society has investigated during the month of August. The society has amply demonstrated in its work right to exist.

One of the three republicans who voted for the Mills bill was Nelson of Minnesota. But he is an ardent supporter of Harrison. He says: "It is the duty of republicans to elect Harrison and settle the tariff question afterwards." This is sound doctrine. No republican who is for such tariff reform as will not imperil our industries nor reduce the pay of our mechanics has any excuse for not voting for Harrison since his letter was published.

It will be interesting to see the effect of the condemnation of D. B. Hill for governor of New York on the independents who are supporting Cleveland. The tendency of the democratic party is clearly seen in this nomination of an old partner of Tweed. It panders to the liquor element and seems to think it no impropriety for a candidate for governor to borrow money of state contractors to pay his election expenses. The decent element of the party protested in public meeting a few nights ago against his nomination. What are they going to do about it? If the two candidates are to be judged by the position they take on civil service reform the Harrison should be preferred to the independents. If they are to be judged by the party behind them, Cleveland is certainly the party that nominated David B. Hill for governor of a state the commonwealth of which should not be preferred.

The democrats in the fourth judicial district have renominated Judge Harrison. He was elected once in the democratic party and was due to Judge Harrison. He has been on the bench for [illegible] years. As usual of Chief Justice Jay [illegible] said of Judge Harrison:

When the judicial ermine was placed on [illegible] shoulders it was a fitting [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] of the law have affected the [illegible] of our district court. Never [illegible] complained of unfairness on the part of the lawyers concerned. Few suspected his decisions. They knew if they [illegible] were sure of a verdict. It has been the almost unanimous opinion of the leading lawyers of the state that Judge Harrison is the ablest judge ever on the district bench.

The Pittsburgh Press is one of the best informed political papers of the day. This was its editorial on the morning of the Maine election:

The unusually large majority [illegible] in 1884 was due to the withdrawal of Mr. Blaine to the front, and the desire of his fellow citizens of Maine to give the country early and decisive evidence of their appreciation of his services. It was an extraordinary vote and its repetition can be looked for only when a similar circumstance shall arise. Our reliance for success in Maine, [illegible] energetic canvass with committed money and [illegible] that the [illegible] will be increased, that their majorities [illegible] governor will be increased, [illegible] for a resolution in the next republican [illegible] plurality [illegible] be reduced.

The average majority [illegible] last four years has been [illegible]. If that figure is not [illegible] this year the supporters will have every reason to feel well satisfied and any chance for [illegible] will be [illegible] gain. The [illegible] of the democrats [illegible] that any falling off from [illegible] republican [illegible] will be [illegible] off.

With a plurality of 30 [illegible] what [illegible] be the inference?

RICH NEW HAVEN MEN.

The City of Elms Has a Number of Millionaires.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 3.—While in the city of Elms of this city are the homes of a number of men whose personal wealth [illegible] gives them prominence accorded to all millionaires.

The career of James E. English, whose millions can only be approximately estimated, has been such as to give him a good social position independent of his wealth. His father, James English, was intrusted with the management of various public trusts. The great-grandfather of Mr. English was killed by a British bayonet during the invasion of New Haven in the time of the revolutionary war. His mother, Nancy Griswold, was of a family which has furnished two governors to the state, and [illegible] this sketch comes near [illegible] the nominee of the Prohibitionists for the presidency of the United States, being then in favor of Franklin Pierce, then almost powerless to Democrats through it the country. Mr. English was born in New Haven in 1812. At the age of 11 years his self reliance and energy, manifested in the labors on a farm in Bethlehem, near his home, have [illegible] him a member of congress and governor of Connecticut. When in congress he, in the [illegible] of a large part of his [illegible] acted with the Republicans for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia.

He was a carpenter's apprentice at the age of 16 and a few years later a contracting [illegible]. Buying and building vessels, shipping clocks to Philadelphia and other ports, with return cargoes of coal, served to swell the [illegible] to a large amount of stock in the New Haven Clock company. He is a large owner of the Adams Express stock and owns many of the finest business blocks in New Haven, which have been built with his money and under his active supervision. The record of his political success in local, state and national affairs is a long one. Member of the state legislature in 1850, 51, 52 and 71; member of congress 1853-55; governor, 1867-71, and United States senator, 1875-77, he is still, although past 70 years old, full of the vigor of youth. He has been married three times, his last [illegible] of whom, two years ago, [illegible] him a total [illegible] daughter of New York, at [illegible] 35 years old.

Ex-Governor English is reputed to be worth between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. As far back as 1873 his annual income was $120,000. His benefactions include a gift of $10,000 to the library of the Yale law school, $10,000 to the East Rock park of New Haven and various contributions for benevolent purposes.

Hiram Camp, whose long, silvery hair gives him an exceedingly patriarchal appearance, is also a New Haven millionaire. He is just now the Prohibition candidate for governor of Connecticut, notwithstanding years. [illegible] of New Haven Clock company and a man of many affairs, he enjoys working with his hands every day in constructing clocks. His interests are [illegible]. He loves to ride spirited horses, and as an ex-chief of the fire department he has appeared in parade mounted, his fine physique, graceful seat and commanding presence having always made him a central figure for the admiration of the people. Mr. Camp is a model of what is understood by the description "A gentleman of the old school." His birth place was Plymouth, Conn., his ancestry belonging to the class of sturdy New England yeomanry whose Puritanism was without bitterness. At the age of 4 years Mr. Camp began his contribution to the industries of the world; by riding the horse attached to a plow, he once narrowly escaped death by an accidental fall while so engaged. He has been the inventor as well as the manufacturer of many of the different clocks in use at this time and of American make. One of his most interesting inventions is a clock which beats time to music and whose movement is regulated at will. He has filled with acceptance a number of positions of public trust, and has been a member of the state legislature. He deeply concerns himself in education and evangelization; supports two Sunday school missionaries in Nebraska and a city missionary in another state. His money founded the Mt. Harmon boys' school at Gill, Mass., which was under the management of the great evangelist, D. C. Moody, and co-operated with him in establishing the Northfield [illegible]. He is a generous contributor to religious institutions—president of one and a trustee for the other. Three years ago he built a fine church on land [illegible] his estate. Mr. Camp is a Congregationalist, and for years has attended the Church of the Redeemer, the pastor being Rev. John E. Todd, who has taken a bold stand against that wing of the denomination professing adherence to the doctrine of a possibility of probation after death, of which Rev. Newman Smyth, successor of the late Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon, of the First Congregational church of New Haven, is a distinguished advocate.

The wealth of Edward Malley, the dry goods merchant, is variously estimated, but is generally thought to be in the neighborhood of a million dollars. He is the father of Walter Malley, who, with a cousin, was tried a few years ago on the charge of causing the death of a young girl named Jennie Cramer. Mr. Malley owns a large number of dwelling houses, built at mid rate cost, and which are rented. He is a lover of fine horses and field sports, and a noted fisherman and hunter.

John C. Anderson, son of the deceased tobacconist, whose wealth was acquired by acting upon the discovery that "fine cut" could be kept from the effect of dampness by wrapping it in lead foil, made New Haven his place of abode a few years ago. On Orange street he built a handsome mansion, which was the largest and most costly dwelling house in the city. [illegible] of the [illegible] regarding [illegible] of the property of the settlement of the deceased Anderson estate, has been made known through the newspapers of the country. Mr. Anderson has been a liberal giver to the two New Haven civilian asylums, but was never [illegible] for money. Hospitable and friendly in feeling, he has been conspicuous in the ranks of rheumatism to forego the pleasures of frequent social intercourse. His home has been sold to the president of the Consolidated Railroad company, as Mr. Anderson's health compelled by living at West Haven, near Long Island waters and a few minutes' ride from New Haven. He has built a fine residence there, the most elegant of the [illegible] overlooking the shore at this New England [illegible]. Mr. Anderson is [illegible] with New Haven, but [illegible] only [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
